

30 Days Wild By Eddie Barnes

Today the weather has gone crazy! It is really windy and rainy. The trees are all blowing about. I hope they don't fall down! (lots of trees fell down in storm Doris)

The rain has squashed all the long grass in our garden.

I wonder what is happening with all our wildlife.

We had a look at the dyke.

The water was lovely and clear

We saw a moorhen, he made a lot of noise and flew away.

He's a water bird, he won't mind about the weather.

But mum is worried that the smaller birds with nests in those blowy trees might fall out. I think they'll be ok because the trees and bushes are big, so there is lots of shelter inside them.
