

30 Days Wild by Eddie Barnes

It's the last day of wild June today, and my last day of school as well! I'm still going back for 3 weeks, but we've finished lessons now, hooray!

Today, mum and I got chairs and sat in the corner of Nora's stable. We sat for a really, really long time, trying not to move at all. We were watching the baby swallows in their nest.

We wanted to see their mum and dad come to feed them.

They did come, but they were not happy that we were sitting there, so they kept going out again. They did feed once, but then no more, so we decided to go away because the babies would be getting hungry.

I went to see the bees in the barn, but they have gone now. We hope they had lots of babies.

When we got in, we drew a swallow picture

Then I went to lie down on dad's hammock under the trees. It was nice.

I heard the birds singing. I was really happy lying there to hear the birds and the nice wind in the trees.

Thank you for reading my blog all the time. I liked your messages a lot.

I really want to try and carry on with my blog.

Thank you for reading,

love from Eddie
